Chuck Flink is an award winning author, planner and landscape architect who for the past 35 years has specialized in conserving greenspace and helping communities build environmental parks and greenways. Chuck has completed work in more than 250 communities located in 37 states. He has also providing consulting services to international clients in 7 foreign countries, including Belarus, China and the Czech Republic.

Chuck obtained both his undergraduate and graduate degrees from NC State University's College of Design. He teaches a spring semester seminar at the College entitled "The Landscape Imperative." For eight years he served on the NC State Board of Visitors (six years as chair) which is advisory to Chancellor Woodson. This past March, NC State recognized Chuck for his many contributions to the University with the Watauga Medal -- the highest non-academic award bestowed by the University.

Chuck is the former 5-term chair of the East Coast Greenway Alliance and former 3-term chair of American Trails. Among Chuck's most notable projects include: the Anne Springs Close Greenway, Fort Mill, SC; the American Tobacco Trail, Durham, Chatham and Wake Counties; the Miami River Greenway in Florida; Charleston County's Greenbelt Plan, South Carolina; and the Grand Canyon Greenway in Arizona.

Chuck's latest book "The Greenway Imperative: Connecting Communities and Landscapes for A Sustainable Future" is scheduled to be released in March 2020.
